My role as a Specialist Learning Support Teacher involves:

- Assessing children and young people and exploring their learning needs
- Taking part in core consultations with SENDCos in Norfolk schools
- Work related to children with social communication needs
- Sharing information with schools to support inclusion

What I might do in school...

- Talk with children/ young people, their parents/ carers and school staff to find out how things are going and to identify ways forward
- Observation in class and/ on the playground
- 1:1 assessment to explore individual strengths and difficulties with learning

My Areas of Interest...

- Literacy difficulties and dyslexia
- Social communication difficulties
- Supporting wellbeing

What is important to me...

- That children and young people are happy and making progress with learning and social understanding
- Fairness
- Listening to different views
- Finding ways forward together

Other things about me:

- Outside work I am trying to learn painting and drawing skills which is good fun
- I love walking by the sea.
